

IN REGION

Background questionnaire

InterOna BV Asia provides a wide range of IT consultancy services to companies operating within the Asian region.

These services are grouped around particular themes considered to be of great importance to companies in the future development of their IT infrastructure:

*Cloud infrastructure
- the way information technology will be delivered in the future*

*Data & Content
- how the ever-growing amounts of enterprise data can be managed effectively and used intelligently to gain competitive advantage*

*People & Technology
- how people will relate to the growing pervasiveness of Information technology in their work and home environments*

Useful in framing the initial discussions about how to improve the efficiency of your company whilst decreasing costs by utilising technology associated with these themes, the questions below will give us a better idea of how we can support you in your goals in the near future.

If you could review these questions and formulate some answers, we are ready to begin to plan with you some first steps.

What is your present business activity?

Do you presently manage your own IT infrastructure?

Do you outsource any IT infrastructure or applications at this moment?

At what level is the amount of data/content within your company growing?

Do you use any particular tools to manage or analyse your data?

When you implement new technology, what kind of programs do you put in place to ensure all your staff are informed and adequately trained?

What impact will mobile technology have on your present work environment?
